

Which training pathway is right for you?

Parents as Teachers

One pathway begins and ends with Foundational Training

For those organizations that can not meet requirements for model replication, this pathway lays the foundation for home visiting as a methodology within the early childhood system. You will have annual "approved user" access to online materials. Register for Foundational Training only.

Foundational Training Description:

This three-day training lays the foundation for home visiting as a methodology within the early childhood system and connects the theoretical framework of Parents as Teachers with practice, introducing three main areas of emphasis in the Parents as Teachers approach:

- Parent-Child Interaction – Learn about the change process and how to use reflective process to engage parents in their growth
- Development-Centered Parenting – Seven developmental topics that inform parenting decisions are covered here. Learn to understand parents' perspectives and to facilitate their ability to problem solve.
- Family Well-Being – Achieve greater understanding of each family's system and partner with parents to strengthen protective factors.

Foundational Training is encouraged but not required for new supervisors.

Register for Foundational Training

One pathway leads to Parents as Teachers affiliation

This is the pathway to high quality replication and strong, significant outcomes for children. Our goal is to help your organization fully understand and put into practice those things that make a quality Parents as Teachers affiliate. Organizations interested in affiliation must meet the essential requirements and complete an Affiliate Plan. After completing training, individuals will have annual "certified parent educator" access to online materials and programs will have "affiliate" status. Register for both Foundational and Model Implementation Training.

Model Implementation Training Description:

To attend this training, you must have an affiliate plan on file. After completing Foundational Training, you will continue into Model Implementation Training. This two-day training builds on Foundational Training and is designed for parent educators whose programs meet the requirements for affiliation. Model Implementation Training is required for new supervisors.

Model Implementation Training incorporates the Parents as Teachers Quality Assurance Guidelines and offers implementation strategies and evidence-based practices that help your organization fully understand and bring to life quality Parents as Teachers services. Learn how to successfully replicate the Parents as Teachers model and explore strategies not covered in Foundational Training. Demonstrating accountability, evaluation and outcomes is a theme woven throughout.

Register for Foundational/Model Implementation Combo Training

Retraining for existing parent educators

Born to Learn certified parent educators will attend Foundational Training and be introduced to new concepts for working with families. It will assure a smooth transition for those trained in the Born to Learn approach as they move toward model fidelity. Click here to see what's different about the new Parents as Teachers approach.

Register for retraining